

Wine of the Year #1: Joe's Pick – 1993 JB Becker Walkenberg Spatlese Trocken

Posted by Joe Salamone on December 3, 2014

Wine of the Year #1: Joe's Pick
1993 JB Becker
Walkenberg Spätlese Trocken
Riesling at its Most Mysterious and Heartfelt

There are no wines in Germany
like J.B. Becker's.

They represent some of the most heartfelt and mysterious wines being made in Germany. I have no trouble singling out Becker's 1993 Wallufer Walkenberg Spätlese Trocken as one of the most memorable bottles that I've tasted all year.

Becker's wines are beautifully (and brutally) honest.

Nothing is done for immediate appeal – they are German dry Rieslings that assume and demand proper aging. We're really happy that Becker has a fairly deep library of back-vintages.

We love and sell a lot of dry Riesling. Still, it's very rare to find aged versions of dry Riesling, especially with perfect provenance and at this price.

The '93 Walkenberg Spätlese Trocken shows Becker in all its glory. You're introduced to a spectrum of textures and flavors that you never encounter in Rheingau Riesling. The wine boasts a

BACK TO BLOG

Recent Posts:

Overachieving Chambolle: 2015 Bertheau Chambolle-Musigny

"Consistently among the top wines produced anywhere in the Mosel" – 2015 Weiser-Kunstler Steffensberg

Collin Blanc de Noirs Les Maillons Extra-Brut \(2013 base\)

A Fusion of Power and Refinement: 2014 Chave Hermitage Rouge

Punching Above Its Weight-Class: 2015 Jamet Collines Rhodaniennes IGP

deep, saline minerality and notes of tobacco, citrus, moss and a deep, building savoriness. Above all, it's a wine of subtle complexity, sturdy acids and gripping palate presence.

Becker's wines made me look at the Rheingau with a fresh set of eyes. The historic region had provided many epic bottles from three or four decades ago, but until discovering Becker's wines, I'd struggled to find anything really exciting currently in the region.

A lot of this has to be credited to Becker's singular take on the Rheingau. Hans Josef Becker, who is currently at the helm of the estate, has focused on dry Riesling since his first vintage in 1971. He practices what is probably best called idiosyncratic traditionalism. The wines spend a long time in large casks, many of them the 2,000 liter doppelstucks, as people did back in the day. These are wines that undoubtedly have an "old-fashioned" feel to them. However, that alone won't account for Becker's unique vision and stubbornness. The story is that when he took over the family domaine and concentrated on dry Rieslings, they lost 50% of their customers.

Becker organically farms vines in Eltviller Sonnenberg and Wallufer Walkenberg. While Eltviller Sonnenberg is the more famous of the two, Wallufer Walkenberg, where he has choice parcels with many old vines, is undoubtedly Becker's flagship site.

Becker's '93 Walkenberg Spätlese Trocken is one of the most challenging and compelling wines that I've tasted all year. I'm really fond of the wine not only for its outright quality, but also its stirring soulfulness and its eye-opening individuality.

To order, reply to offers@crushwineco.com or call the store at (212) 980-9463.

Joe Salamone
Wine Buyer
Crush Wine & Spirits

RELATED POSTS:

Wine of the Year: Joe's Pick – 2012 Weiser-Kunstler Steffensberg Spatlese Trocken

Wine of the Year: Schäfer-Frohlich Bockenauer Felseneck Spatlese

Wine of the Year: Schäfer-Frohlich Bockenauer Felseneck Spatlese

Among the top wines produced anywhere in the Mosel – 2011 Weiser-Kunstler Ellergrub Spätlese Trocken

SHOP

WINE

SPIRITS

ACCESSORIES

CORPORATE

ABOUT

OUR STORY

PRESS

JOBS

EXPLORE

SPECIAL OFFERS

SUPPORT

CONTACT

FOLLOW US

© 2017 CRUSH WINE & SPIRITS. ALL RIGHTS

SALES

HELP

RESERVED.